The Appeal Case in the Circuit Court.

In the Chancery Court of this city yesterday morning Judge Fitzhugh gave his opin-ion in the case of Henry Miller and others vs. the Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac Railroad Company, being an application for an injunction to restrain the said CHURCH NOTES .- Rev. Pike Powers read company from using upon its road on Broad the services at the Monumental church on street engines of any kind propelled by Sunday morning, and Dr. Woodbridge steam. The plaintiffs represented themselves to be citizens of Richmond and propertypreached a sermon appropriate to the occaowners on Broad street, or persons doing Rev. Dallas Tucker officiated at St. James church on Sunday morning. Rev. John O. Turpin, of King William, The Judge after very ably and carefully stating the case made by the pleadings in this cause, said: "The proceedings preached at the Leigh-Street Baptist church at 11 A. M. on Sunday, and Rev. Samuel C. at law, instituted by the City of Rich-Rev. "The first question that should be considered is, whether pending the appeal in the Circuit Court in the suit at law between the city and the company such a case has been made by the plaintiffs in this cause as to jus-At Sidney Methodist, Rev. R. H. Mullen tify this court in interfering?

"The jurisdiction of courts of equity over nuisance is in aid of the legal right, and has Rev. J. C. Granbery, D. D., and the pastor of Centenary Methodist, Rev. John E. Ed. wards, D. D., having returned to the pending the trial of the right. does not arise from the fact that a nuisance exists, but results from the circumstance that the equitable power of the court is necessary to protect the party from an injury for which no adequate redress can be obtained by an action at law. The rule laid down by Lord Brougham in Earl of Ripon vs. Hobart, 3 Mylne, and Kein, 169, is this: 'If the thing sought to be prohibited is in interesting sermon to a large congregation. itself a nuisance, the court will interfere to stay irreparable mischief without waiting for ton, as well as some of the soldiers from the the result of a trial; and will, according to the circumstances, direct an issue, or allow an action, and if need be expedite the proceedings, the injunction being in the mean time continued. But where the thing sought renovated inside and out; will be repainted to be restrained is not unavoidably and in itself noxious, but only something which may according to circumstances prove so, then the court will refuse to interfere until the matter has been tried at law'-See also 2 Story, Eq., section 924, note 1. But this jurisdiction is only applied where the right is clearly established, where no adequate compensation can be made in damages, and where delay itself would be wrong. The case must be one of strong and imperious necessity, or the right must have been previously established at law. If the evidence be conflicting and the injury doubtful, this extraordinary remedy will be withheld-Parker versus Winnipiseogee Lake and Cot-

Kerr on injunctions, 209, section 20.

"Under these general principles the plaintiff in this cause were prosecuting the suit at law in the Circuit Court; in other words, if the plaintiffs in both cases were the same, I am of opinion that it would be my duty not to interfere until the case at law was determined; for the railroad company disputes the legal right and denies that there is a nuisance. The company has been in the uninterrupted use of the street for upwards of thirty years, and claims to be using it now only as it has used it in the past. I do not see that there is such a strong and imperious necessity of immediate action by this court, or that there is such imminent danger of irreparable mischief before the tardiness of the law can reach it, us would justify the court in now awarding an injunction. But the peculiarity of this case is that the plaintills in the two cases are different. The city of Richmond is proceeding at law, and the plaintiffs in this case, private citizens, are proceeding in equity. I do not think, however, that this peculiarity affects the application of the principle to this case. The municipal corporation of the city of Richmond represents all the citizens of the place-the plaintiffs in this case as well as others. It is itigating in the proper forum the main questions involved in this case—namely, the questions of the existence of a nuisance and of the legal right of the company to use locomotives in the street. If the city succeeds in maintaining the validity of this ordinance referred to the udgment in its favor will enure to the bene-

VERDICT IN AN IMPORTANT INSURANCE CASE The case of Dr. C. E.
